

NEW Podcast for Social Workers

The Podcast Putting Legs on Social Work in Indigenous Communities Through Story!

Many of us come with good intentions, bringing all of our head, heart and hand to social work, but how do we do it in a way that is decolonising and authentic. What does best practice social work in Australia's indigenous communities actually look like on the ground?

We will hear stories straight from the mouths of those covered in dirt, sweat and dust.

We will get to know the people behind the work and what makes them tick.

Our guests will include Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal social workers, community development workers and counsellors as well as Elders and community members whose story will resonate with social workers working with Indigenous communities, groups and individuals.

You'll hear stories about what inspires social workers in Australia to work in Indigenous communities; the challenges they've faced and the skills and knowledge they have used to overcome low points; the sparkling moments of success and what makes it all worthwhile; the values and beliefs that underpin their work and who has been most influential in their development; and future hopes and dreams.

Whether you are black or white, the journey of learning is life long. So let's 'Talk the Walk' together.

Listen to Episodes NOW

or Subscribe to Blog updates and Podcast Episodes from our Home Page.

Watch out for details on easy subscribing with popular podcasters
AVAILABLE SOON!

Brought to you by Lucy Van Sambeek, Darwin, Australia

www.metaphoricallyspeaking.com.au

...METAPHORICALLY SPEAKING

Healing from trauma through art, food and storytelling.